Some skid, some ski as first storm dumps 9" of snow on local area

The storm that hit the area Monday evening was, in the words of Bethel Patrolman Norman Clanton, "Terrible."

Bethel Highway Department Supervisor Bob Davis said, "For the first storm (of the season), this is one of the worst we have had in years. It came down real fast."

And real steady—from about 3:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. In that short space of time, the storm dumped about nine inches of wet snow on the area. According to Mr. Davis, nine inches was measured on Skillings Road and also in Mason Township. In Andover, Floyd Emerson Sr., the unofficial weatherman for the town, measured nine inches at his house in the village.

The storm played havoc with local roads. "It was very slippery traveling conditions," said Patrolman Clanton, who stayed out on the roads until 1 a.m. "It came down so fast, the crews had a hard time keeping up. We had numerous cars off the road."

Mr. Davis estimated about two dozen cars went off the road, but most got going all right with a continued on Page Ten SNOWSTORMS BLANKETED the area this week. Monday's storm deposited nine inches of snow on Vernon Street (Rte. 35), Bethel, (above) as well as on the rest of the M.S.A.D. 44 area, and today (Thursday) snow was again falling heavily. The snow hindered motorists but delighted ski area operators. Kids were disappointed Tuesday that they didn't get a snow day, but were exultant today (Thursday) with a holiday courtesy of the weather. Road crews worked all night Monday to keep roads open. They were at it again today.

Selectmen allocate up to $2,000 to search for new town manager

The search for a new town manager could cost Bethel $2,000. The Board of Selectmen Monday night approved an agreement with the Maine Municipal Association authorizing payment of up to $2,000 for the association's assistance in the search for a new chief administrator for the town. The vote on the authorization was 4-0, with Selectman Peter Haines absent.

For the money, the association will advertise the position in statewide papers and review the resumes collected. The association will provide the selectmen with what are considered the better resumes and will whittle down the applications to not more than four for final interviews by the local selectmen.

The selectmen will get a look at the resumes during a closed session Dec. 19 and will conduct interviews at a closed session Jan. 9, 1985. The funds to pay for the assistance of MMA will come from the town manager account.

In other business, the selectmen approved concealed weapons permits for the following: Donald Feeney, Robert Crockett, Jon L. White, Peter Calligas, Gloria J. Crockett and Vincent Dooen.

The board had little to say about the concerns expressed by the newly formed Bethel Employees Association. Association spokesman Merton Brown explained that the 11 full-time town employees were meeting regularly to discuss concerns over employment guidelines and practices, but noted that the group was not a bargaining unit.

The association had presented a written list of concerns to the board last month. Among those concerns were a desire for dental insurance, a desire for possible contributions towards uniforms for the Highway Department and Sewer Department personnel, and desire for a shower at the town garage.

The selectmen had no comment on the report, but Interim Town Manager Dewey Thayer expressed strong support for a grievance by town employees over compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay.

The speaker was David Preble, pharmacist of Prim's Pharmacy in Bethel. He gave very important and interesting information for older citizens.

For new people, Mary Conkum, Tessie Martin, Ann Feeney and Opal Tyler, have joined the club and attended for the first time.

A fund raising harvest supper of corned beef was planned at the Bethel Methodist Church Saturday, Nov. 17.

FROM THE BETHEL AREA HEALTH CENTER

Ornament Contest Continues

Well, many put the tree up this morning in the Health Center waiting room. The lights are on it—the star is on the top but something very important is missing. We don't have any ornaments!! Please help us to decorate the tree. We'll give prizes to each category (five in all). The ornaments that are made by you are much better than any we could buy and we much prefer to have the children in the Bethel area provide our ornaments. Join in the fun and maybe even win a prize.

Bethel House

The Eagle Patron — Troop 565, Boy Scouts of America, with Christopher Hanscom, patrol leader, visited Bethel House Saturday a.m. They will come each Saturday during December to do errands, carry out trash, move pieces of furniture, etc., or just visit, if one would like a little company.

This past Saturday I was about to do a washing among other things, when two Boy Scouts knocked on my door and asked if there was anything they could do to help me. They washed, dried and folded my clothes neatly and carried them into my apartment ready for the next task.

At my sink another Scout was washing and rinsing my breakfast dishes—and he surely was an expert—for they were rinsed in hot water, turned upside down in the drain—then washed out very carefully—and sideboard all wiped down.

One other Scout—or maybe it was one of those already here went to the Post Office for my mail—how about that?

You know we "old fogies" need a little movement and noise around here once in a while—so several of them ran up and down the stairs since they were unoccupied—didn't it sound great?

They will arrive each Saturday in December. So save some jobs you dislike doing—and enjoy the Scouts when they knock on your door. Say some chores, like cleaning out under the sink—it's hard for us to get down and reach under or have them vacuum!

It's all free—and offered to us with love—let's accept it graciously.—E.C.S.

Tuesday, Dec. 11: Sue Farrar's youngest students will entertain the Bethel House Seniors in the Rec. Hall at 3:30.

The Ladies Aid Committee met at the home of Laurie Bergeron last week. Laurie offered to purchase the Jenkins' Fund gifts and it was decided to ask Simone Lavalley to make up Senior Citizen baskets. It was agreed the Association would supply $30 to supplement donations. Laurie offered to find someone else to do this if Simone is unable because Armand is recuperating from a severe illness and needs an oxygen tank nearby constantly.

The weather has been unseasonably warm and the small amount of snowfall has not piled up. We are threatened with a big storm watch so by the time this is published the topsoil may be six feet under.

Oscar Hamel has been splitting wood with his splitter for some people in town.

The regular meeting of the selectmen was postponed Monday night due to the weather.

Safety Tip

Christmas is a wonderful time of year, especially for children, but Christmas also presents special safety hazards for youngsters.

For instance, those beautiful, poinsettias and holly plants are poisonous, very much so. Keep these plants well out of the reach of young children.

Many people like to decorate their homes with festive candles. Like any open flame, candles can cause burns, so be careful about using candles at this time of year.

Even the best known symbol of the season, the tree, can prove dangerous. Even a well-made stand will not prevent a child from possibly pulling the tree over onto themselves. Use some string and tie your tree back to keep it balanced and secure. With very young children, sometimes the best idea is to put the tree inside the playpen—this way both the child and the tree are safe.

Finally, as much as children like to help make those special Christmas goodies, remember that hot baking sheets can cause 2nd degree burns. Even hot cookies can cause painful burns to the tongue and mouth. So, be careful in the kitchen—know where your child is when you're making those treats.

West Bethel

Olive Head returned to her home this past weekend after spending some time visiting her sister, Mrs. Erlon Merrill, in Weston, Mass., and other relatives in the vicinity.

Mrs. Sylvia Akers returned to her home in Natick, Mass., after a few days with Olive Head.

Cathryn Lovejoy and Dorothy West of Rumford got home Monday night after a 10 day trip to Florida, just in time to welcome our first storm of the winter. On their way down they spent two days as guests of Elmer Waterhouse in Hendersonville, N.C. They also stayed with Bill and Davene Mitchell in Jacksonville, Fla., last Sunday night.

Lillian Lovejoy has been ill at Ledgeview Memorial Home in West Paris and would appreciate cards from friends.

(This week a thoughtful friend sent me her painting in Evans Notch. I placed it in my "Book" and it inspired me to share a bit of that book with you. To me it is a valuable treasure for memories are the days we knew and images that linger deep within the mind.)

Each of us has a wonderful invisible scrapbook of memory. It is unique and a valuable treasure.
I also have another on which I have been working for more than a year. I call it "Trails Remembered" for I have written of the trails walked and places visited with my hiking pals from July 26, 1965 to October 11, 1981. At this time it contains 133 pages of writings and pictures, many of which were taken on our outings. I could write a volume but will list but a few.

I remember curling waters through alders, which crowd down to the bank to watch the brook go by. A little star peeking from a rain pool

Corduroy ridges of a ploughed field. . . . Running deer waving a white flag. . . . Fields in patchwork colors. . . . The eternal twilight of the woods. . . . Stonewalls crumbling, and fences staggering across a meadow

Symphony of frogs (when I always asked Ruth to repeat the frog story) and crickets. . . . Northern lights with arms and fingers clawing their way among the stars

The startling boom of a partridge bursting through forest after a winter storm. . . . A frozen pond opening its eyes to peep at spring. Early dawn, wind rising to blow out the stars. . . . Colorful autumn. . . .

October's pretty afternoons, while the mountains dressed in purple robes

... Rain playing drums on leaves

... The sun bleeding on the snow as it sets for the night. Swooping swallows of evening. Ducks making a wedge as they leave the pond at evening. Rising fish dimpling the waters. Singing winds Country cemeteries and little white churches. . . . Acorns wearing tamo'-shanters. . . . The moon's golden path across the water while the old day is led in purple dusk down the steps of time.

"Time's fast fleeting moments;
How silently they go;
No more can we possess them;
That's one thing we all know."

We spent hours on the trails with a small pack sack and our cameras. Therefore it contains many pictures of special places and scenes. Such as these from the 75 listed in my book. Albany Basins, Albany Brook Trail, Azistoos Lake, Bull Branch on Sunday River, Baldpate Mountain, Caribou Mountain, Cold River Brook Trail, Eye Brow Trail, Frye
Brook, Ingalls Mountain, Table
Rock, Tire'm Mountain, Speckled Mountain, Tumbledown Mountain,

HERE'S THE TELSTAR BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM, front row, manager, Jon Head, Bernie Haines, co-captain, Brandon Salway, captain, Chad Bean, Judy Hutchinson, manager; back row, left to right, Bill Caddigan, coach, Chris Chapman, Jimmy Fiske, Ken Vi-ger, Gary Roshto, Scott Haines and Dan Hart, assistant coach.

Jockey Cap, and others.

So the joys of yesterday can be found in the memory of today because memories are for-get-me-nots gathered along life's way pressed close to the human heart into a perennial bouquet." The most of them are happy ones but a few are touched with tears.

The scenes are of rural Maine and New Hampshire with their constant changes.

From Table Rock in Grafton Notch, we loved the grandeur of the mountains. They stood age-less and vast, scanning the lovely earth and overlooking the panorama of trees and valley. Their rugged profiles etched their lines upon the sky. Sometimes they were peaceful; others brooding and lonely.

At Lookout Ledge at South Arm
I have written Gail Burket's . . .
High in the mountains there is joy to share.

With the loneliest stranger who wanders there.
(Beauty and strength glow without and within.
For the mountains and people are both kin.)

There is a picture where a sunset silhouettes an apple tree against the dark background of Old Speck Mountain with snow on its peak and the vast wilderness.

Wilderness is the raw material out of which man has hammered the artifacts called civilization.

There are scenes of Rangeley Lake, a day of rewarding beauty, a beauty not limited to "The Height of Land" but virtually everyone around. I read from "Maine Geographic" how Rangeley Lake got its name. I placed it, in my Book.

So on and on the pages tell stories of joy and fun.

It was sadness at the end for on Oct. 11, 1981 we took our last hike.

"Softly new life begins with a hope for a better tomorrow."

In most ways this has been a pleasant work. A couple of skaters were trying the ice on Mud Pond one day. The days have been so warm that Hicks Pond has been opening days and closing nights.

On Tuesday our Club met with Katie Tamminen. Helen Chonecki was ill and Fay Holt had to go to Boston to see her eye doctor so there were five of us.

We had a very pleasant surprise on Sunday; Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Avery and Mrs. Montie Millett called to see us. They left Pittsfield, N.H., at 7:30 in the morning to come to Maine. They called on Gladys' two sisters, Arlene

Farr and Rena Kujala, in West
Paris, and other friends.

Robert Holt, Windsor, took his mother to Boston on Tuesday so was at the farm here for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis were in Freeport on Sunday to spend the day with their daughter, Lillian, and husband, Glenn Strait.

Glenn, of Gray, Ardel, of Auburn, and Duane Hayes, of West Paris, were with their mother, Doris Hayes, on Saturday.

Clyde and I visited Carl and Lettie Brooks one day this week.

Mrs. Denise Adams and daughter, Jessica Rae, visited us on Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Curtis and granddaughter, Lee Ann Searles, of Farmington, who had been visiting Lee's brother at Stephens Memorial Hospital called to see me on their way home on Saturday.

Ann Holt, Bethel, and her mother, Fay Holt, were in Lewiston on Saturday. On Sunday evening Ann visited us.

A NOTE FROM THE PUBLISHER

B. F. Wideman

Now that I've been here at The Bethel Citizen for ten weeks and have met people in various parts of our communities—such as at a yard sale in Newry, at the American Legion in Locke Mills, at the Andover Elementary School, at the general store in Rumford Center, at the potteries in Bryant Pond, at the antique shops in Hanover, and up and down Main Street in Bethel—it's probably a good time to explain a bit about myself.

I notice that most of the people I meet want to know why I came here, where I came from, and what plans I have for The Bethel Citizen. (The queries are not always in that order. Often, people want assurance right off the bat that I won't do anything to drastically change their local paper.) To go back to the beginning, the reason my family and I came here was that we liked the community and there was a good, little newspaper for sale.

I first "discovered" Bethel through skiing at Sunday River. Over time, I got to know some of the people in town, and also got to know the Browns at the newspaper.

I had been looking for years to purchase a good community newspaper, and had looked at papers (and communities) in Washington, Oregon, and Alaska, as well as in other parts of Maine. None seemed so right as Bethel and The Citizen.

One brilliant, winter spring day, my wife Mary and I skied up to a hill overlooking the Androscoggin Valley and marvelled at the beauty of the place. And we decided that, yes, we would like to settle here.

That decision then led to a number of actions. One, I had to reach an agreement with the Browns for purchasing the paper and then another agreement with John Brown to form a new partnership. All of that went smoothly.

Secondly, Mary had to break the news to her three teenagers that the family would be moving from Newmarket, N. H. That was fairly traumatic, but manageable. Of the three, only Katie has come with us. The oldest girl, Susannah, headed off to college at the University of California at Berkeley, while Mary's son, Jon, decided to continue in high school in Durham, N.H. But both will be here for vacations.

Then Mary had to make academic arrangements such as cancelling a position as visiting scholar at MIT and getting assurance that she could re-arrange her teaching schedule at UNH so she would have to be on campus only four days a week.

Now that we're settled into our new home on Park Street—the former Hutchinson residence—and now that the winter recreation special section I've been working on has been delivered to all the ski stores on Boston's north shore, I'll devote my energies to think more about what John Brown and I plan to do with The Citizen.

What we've decided so far is to change production from linotype/letterpress to phototypesetting and offset. What this means in practical terms is that we've invested in a computerized typesetting system that will allow us to set all the type for the paper—both the ads

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all my relatives, friends and neighbors, for all the prayers, cards, flowers and phone calls I received during my stay in the hospital and since my return home. A special thank you to all the ladies of the Bethel Gospel Center for all the meals they sent in. It was greatly appreciated. I love you all and God bless you.

C.E.P. DIRECTOR URGES
PREPARATION FOR SEVERE
WINTER STORMS

Dick Hosterman, Bethel's Civil Emergency Preparedness Director, advises citizens to prepare for severe storms by stockpiling emergency supplies of food, water, flashlights and batteries, and wood, kerosene and campstoves for heating and cooking.

The federal government's pamphlet, "Safety Tips for Winter Storms," is available free at the C.E.P. headquarters in the fire station and at the town office.

And the articles—in much less time than is currently needed. And the actual printing of the paper will be turned over, to be done on a modern, high-speed, offset press instead of on our antique—but serviceable—letterpress. This again, will save time. It will also allow us to print better-looking ads and photos. With the time saved, we hope to do a lot more printing jobs for local organizations and individuals.

Are there drawbacks to bringing high tech to The Citizen? Yes, there are. We'll be dependent on other people to help us produce the paper. Currently, by producing the paper in-house, we enjoy complete control over the product from start to finish. From the writing of the stories and the taking and etching of the photographs, right through to the printing, folding and mailing of the paper, we have complete control of the entire process. By having a large shop print the paper, the paper will look prettier, but we'll lose some production control. Nowadays, if the paper is late, it's our fault. In the future, it might be the fault of others.

In the short time I've been here, I've come to love the sound of our press on Thursday mornings, turning out the paper sheet by sheet. And while John Brown is feeding sheets into the press, Edwin Brown and I are folding and cutting it, and Ed's wife, Laura Brown, and their daughter Laurie Davis are addressing the completed papers.

Each paper has been personally handled and inspected four times (including the Wednesday night press run, which prints the reverse side of each page). A modern press will run off the paper in a half-hour, untouched by human hands.

The humanness will still be in the paper, however, in the columns and stories that you've learned to expect. In fact, the reason for modernizing the production process is to free up our working time and allow us to gather more news to put into the paper (as well as to allow us to do more job work). With the additional time, we expect to cover more stories in Bethel and the surrounding communities.

We are also looking for journalists who would like to contribute news from the nearby towns—not the regular columns, which we will continue to feature, but news stories, features, and photos. The pay is low to non-existent, but the experience will be invaluable for anyone interested in journalism as a career.

Speaking of experience, my own has been a mixed bag. I began my career in journalism as a copyboy on a New York daily back around 1957. I shifted out of journalism before graduating from college (University of Florida, 1959), however, and graduated as a high school English teacher. That career, too, was short-circuited by the burgeoning war in southeast Asia, and I spent seven years in the Navy instead—first as a deck officer in the Atlantic, and then as an intelligence officer in the Pacific.

Upon release from active duty, I went into graduate school at the University of Washington and a few years later was back in Asia as a Fulbright Fellow, doing research in economic history. It was after my fellowship ran out and I still had no dissertation to show for it that I returned to journalism. For seven years I reported from Asia, mostly for The Washington Post and for a Hong Kong-based newsweekly called the Far Eastern Economic Review. Most of my reporting was from the Philippines.

In order to get back into the mainstream of American life, I returned to the States in 1979 and joined a daily paper (Today) in Cocoa, Fla., not far from Orlando, where I had grown up.

While being a foreign correspondent had been exciting, I had felt isolated because of the great distance from the people I was writing for. Community journalism was what I wanted, and a medium-sized daily in Florida would offer me that, I thought.

But it was still too big—had to cover too much. So I moved to Ipswich, Mass., to become editor of the Ipswich Chronicle and learn what small-town journalism was like.

I found that I liked it, and after three years, it was a natural progression to want my own paper and to want to settle permanently in a lovely small town.

Now that I'm here, I pledge to you that I will do my best to keep The Citizen the helpful friend of the community that you know it to be, while increasing the paper's coverage of newsworthy matters.

I would be most interested in hearing your views of what you would like to see in the paper in the future—and what you would not like to see in the paper. No doubt, you have already noticed a few subtle changes. There will be more, but nothing drastic until we change production systems, early next year. Since The Citizen is a reflection of the communities it serves, I hope the local citizens will drop in and discuss how the paper might better serve the community. This would also give me the chance to say hello personally and to get to know more people more quickly.

Until we meet, then, this short introduction will have to suffice. Let me just say that my family and I are very grateful for the warm reception we've received here. Thank you all.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:
Don't Mar The Finish
If you imagine yourself traveling on a cobblestone street atop your riding lawn mower at 45 mph, you then might understand the concern and anxiety pilots currently experience when landing on Bethel airport. The combination of small diameter tires on wheels with frozen ruts in the mud, can be very abusive to equipment as well as hazardous to one's health.

This time of year is most critical on runway conditioning. Each night frost creeps deeper into the ground then each day the sun melts that frost leaving mud in its place. Until the ground freezes solid, the airport runway is a potential quagmire.

The less use of the airport at this critical time the better. Which brings me to the point. In the past six months I myself have seen the runway used by: cars, trucks, three-wheelers, mopeds, motorcycles, horses and an occasional aircraft. My most recent surprise was last week. I witnessed a lady drive into the airport in a four-wheel drive open the door for her dog, which headed off down the runway with her behind him neither one thinking of a possible aircraft inbound for landing. Fortunately, none was. I waited for the dog and truck to clear the runway and I took off.

The thing that distresses me about the misuse and abuse of the runway is that it is totally unnecessary due to the strategic location of the airport access road on the south side of the runway. That road is in good shape, the same length as the runway, and made for vehicle and animal traffic.

Folks use your common sense and "Don't Mar The Finish."

TELSTAR BOYS BOW 66-55

from the final buzzer, as they closed the lead to six, and Scott Haines stood at the foul line. Haines was seven for nine from the free-throw line, but he didn't get a chance that time, as the referee took the ball from him and decreed a jump ball because of a double rule infraction in the way the opposing teams lined up for the free throw. That put a damper on Telstar's comeback drive, the coach indicated.

Speaking of Haines, who had played the JV game prior to the varsity contest, Coach Caddigan was exuberant. "He surprised the heck out of everybody," Haines, a sophomore, is the brother of senior guard Bernie Haines and was high scorer for the night with 19.

Bernie Haines, Salway and Gary Roshio all fouled out in the fourth quarter, and Chad Bean came in as guard. "He did a fine job," commented the coach.

The boys will be in action again Friday night at Mexico and Saturday night (8 o'clock) at Gould Academy. (The JV boys will play Gould at home in the afternoon, at two).

The girls' basketball team was to open the season Monday at Leavitt but the trip was cancelled by the superintendent of schools in light of the impending snowstorm. The game was played last night (Wednesday), past deadline for the Citizen.

COMMUNITY-BASED FAMILY SUPPORT TEAM TO MEET AT LIBRARY DEC. 11

During the past two months representatives from various caregiving agencies involved with child abuse and neglect have been meeting to develop a Family Support Team to help families prevent child abuse. Believing that children are a most vital resource in the community, the team's major goal is to work within the community to help families become and/or remain healthy units which promote the well being of all their families, especially their children. The broad goals of the team include increasing community awareness of child abuse and developing educational programs for parents and children regarding child abuse and its prevention.

As its first educational activity the team is sponsoring a parents' film preview meeting to view the VCR film "Strong Kids, Safe Kids." The message of the film is to help children protect themselves against sexual abuse and abduction. The major purpose of the evening is to give parents an opportunity to view the film before showing it to their children and to talk about their concerns and/or discomfort with the issue of child sexual abuse. The evening will also give parents an opportunity to meet and talk with members of the team and give them input into activities that may be important to them. The preview has been scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 11, at the Bethel Library, at 7 p.m. The film has been donated by Eric Paul of #1 Video who is also making the film available to families free of charge.

The evening's program will be about 1 1/2 hours long with the film lasting 45 minutes. Another program in the morning hours with child care available is being planned for some time after the holidays.

Members of the Family Support Team are: Karen Bean, Margie Bartlett, and Dan Hart of SAD 44; Bill Williams, Oxford Oxford Sheriff's Dept.; Jan Whitworth, Pixie Williams, Kathie Parker and Shirley Powell, Bethel Area Health Center; Cathy Sutton, Public Health Nurse; Katina Colombatos, West Bethel Children's Center; Brendon Bass, West Parish Congregational Church; ex officio members are Lorna Pendleton, Oxford County Child Abuse and Neglect Council, and Peter Goode, Child Protection Services, Dept. of Human Services.

55 MPH VIOLATORS ARE STILL FACING CRACKDOWN

The state police crackdown on violators of the 55-mile per hour posted speed limit is continuing.

"During September, state police issued 2,246 summonses and 907 warnings to motorists who did not voluntarily comply with the speed limit law," said Col. Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Weeks said state police enforcement action showed an increase of 180 summonses/arrests and 251 warnings compared to September 1983.

"Motorists who comply with the 55-mile per hour speed limit law can help Maine retain approximately 2.5-million dollars in Federal funds used to maintain our highways; more importantly, help prevent serious personal injury and save lives," said Weeks.

According to the state police chief, "There could be a drastic reduction in road deaths and serious injury if each motorist obeyed the speed limit, wore their seat belt—including each passenger, and did not drive after drinking."

VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE HAS ENROLLMENT OF 58 PLAYERS

The SAD 44 Adult Co-Ed Volleyball League has begun the Winter season of play with an enrollment of 58 people making up six teams. The Winter season will run for ten weeks on Wednesday nights at the Telstar High School gym. On December 5 and 19, the League will begin play at 7:15, and on December 12, play will get underway at 8.

Players are reminded that a re-scheduled Telstar basketball game may cause volleyball to be canceled, and in this event, team coordinators will use the telephone chain to notify players. Donnie Katlin is the volunteer coordinator for the Volleyball League, and team coordinators are Dale Buck, Wendy Rice, Lauretta Vero, John Caron, Ray Baker and Stan Cordwell. Anyone who wishes to be added to a team should call the Adult & Community Education office, 824-2780.

BETHEL SELECTMEN

As Neta Littlefield explained it: "The last couple of years we were told (by former Town Manager Bill Judson) that if we worked overtime we took it out in comp time."

"That's not right," said Interim Town Manager Thayer, "If you work more than 40 hours, you get paid time-and-a-half."

The town's personnel rules state that employees will receive time-and-a-half pay for holidays worked if total weekly hours are over 40. The rules state that other overtime will be recompensed in the form of compensatory time off. But, highway employees receive time-and-a-half pay for overtime.

The board noted correspondence from the state Department of Conservation reporting that department workers had destroyed 835 currant and gooseberry plants in pine forests in town. The plants act as hosts for white pine blister disease. The cost, $2,849.94, was borne by the state.

By a vote of 4-0, the board approved a liquor license renewal for the Sudbury Inn.

Jim Hudson, head of the airport planning committee, told the selectmen that he had met with two Air National Guard officers who expressed interest in utilizing the soon-to-be-enlarged Bethel airport.

According to Dr. Hudson, the Air National Guard wants to use Bethel's Col. Dyke Field for training missions of C-130 aircraft, four-engine turboprop cargo planes. In exchange, the Air National Guard would spend a summer training period building the new runway and associated buildings. "It looks like a helluva deal for Bethel," he said.

The savings in labor and materials would be between $200,000 and $400,000, Dr. Hudson said. The project, estimated to ultimately cost $853,700 is to be funded by federal, state and local governments. "It (the Air National Guard offer) is gonna save everybody money," he said.

The selectmen authorized him to explore the Guard's offer further.

The board set Dec. 24 and the morning of Dec. 31 as holidays for town employees. Chairman Arlan Jodrey objected to the full-day holiday on Dec. 24, preferring a half-day, the same as Dec. 31.

Pack 566 News

On Nov. 27, Cub Scout Pack 566 held their monthly meeting at the Telstar Cafeteria.

Den #1 was in charge of the opening and closing ceremonies as well as the main skit.

Six Den Chiefs from Boy Scout Troop 565 along with Scoutmaster Ray Harrington conducted the uniform inspection. This inspection is a requirement of the charter renewal. The Cub Scout Pack had set their goal last December to strive for Honor Unit Award, and with the uniform inspection will be able to apply for it.

In advancement ceremonies, Jason Cross and Lloyd Sweetser earned their wolf rank. Gold arrows were earned by Bear Cub Adam Craig, Wolf's Jason Cross and Lloyd Sweetser.

The Webelos dens have been busy on several activity badges. Earning their engineering badges were Chris Cordwell, Jody Brooks, Jason Mathias, Jason Walega, Pat Harrington, Jeremiah Mills, Howard Rice, Nathaniel Craig, Matt Arsenault and Brian Davis.

Other badges earned: Aquanaut—Chris Cordwell, Mike Sylvester; Outdoorsman—Jody Brooks; Traveler—Jason Mathias; Sportsman—Jason Mathias; Citizen—Nathaniel Craig, Patrick Harrington; Athletic—Nathaniel Craig, Howard Rice.

The boys were awarded the popcorn salesman prizes. Top salesmen were Patrick Harrington, Lloyd Sweetser and Howard Rice.

Special award of the Cub Scout coin, which has inscribed on it the Cub Scout Promise, was presented to Jason Walega, who has demonstrated exceptional ability in cub scouting.

The dens picked a father to represent them in a "Turkey Gobbling Contest." The best "gobbler" was a treat for the den he represented. Fred Burk won hands down. Den #3 was presented a large bottle of soda and large bag of chips. The boys really enjoyed seeing their dads strut their feathers.

At the close of the festive evening Den 2 was awarded the "Outstanding Performance Trophy." This trophy is awarded to the den that during the past month and during the pack meeting consistently performed outstandingly.

The next pack meeting will be Dec. 18 at 6:30 in the Telstar Cafeteria for their annual Christmas party.

Recent visitors at Irene Wilson's have been: Vicki Wilson and Bruce Greenleaf, Bethel, and Danny Kennedy, Bingham.

After Joan Deegan and she had gone to Fryeburg Saturday morning to pick up the pork from the pigs they raised, Joe and Leah visited Henry and Betty Deegan and family at Cape Elizabeth.

Visiting Joe and Muriel Gilbert were: Bill and Germaine Lauze, Lil Lauze, Blanche and Rosaire Gagnon, Lewiston and Genevieve Gorham, West Greenwood.

Mary Mills of Bolsters Mills stayed Friday night and Saturday with us. We went to Coolidge's for 50 pounds of sunflower seeds to feed the chickadees this winter. I heard one in the syringa bush Saturday morning but haven't since.

The weather bureau says that we are in the snowstorm warning area. Starting this afternoon, Monday, we could get 6-10 inches before it is done. According to the recap for the year, we have had 44.73 inches of precipitation which is 5.4 inches above normal. That hardly makes sense in view of all the wells that went dry this fall and are still dry to start the winter.

NOTES FROM WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Consider the ideas of the late Sir Kenneth Clark, who popularized art in the famous T.V. "Civilization" series. In his work "What is a Masterpiece?" we find the following definition: "Although many meanings cluster around the word masterpiece, it is above all the work of an artist of genius who has been absorbed by the spirit of the time in a way that has made his individual experiences universal. If he is fortunate enough to live in a time when moving pictorial ideas are current, his chances of creating a masterpiece are greatly increased. If, to put it crudely, the acceptable subjects of painting are serious themes, touching us at many levels, he is well on his way. But in the end a masterpiece will be the creation of his own genius."

It seems to us this definition is applicable to many of the items in historical society collections. They are minor "masterpieces" created by artisan "geniuses" who bring the theme of universal beauty home to us in a simple and direct manner. We preserve them as part of the precious legacy civilization has left us.

This week's Society meeting will feature an exchange of gifts and cards, also a tasting party. Recordings appropriate to the season will be played. Society members all wish you and yours "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!" Please take time to reflect on the historical significance of Christ's birth for all mankind. So often the great events of history are those most often overlooked in its analysis. Western civilization was largely shaped by the influence of Christian thought. Surely we must study Christ's birth, life, death, and resurrection.

The Mothers Club and Ladies Circle delivered Thanksgiving fruit baskets to several senior citizens Thanksgiving week.

Stephen and Linda Yates had a nice Thanksgiving dinner at home with his mother, Mrs. Harry Yates of South Portland, as guest. On Saturday, the Yates' family attended a family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chamberlin, Canton, Stephen recently had as guests for deer hunting, his best friends, Michael Schildroth, Westbrook, and Michael Wiusz, South Portland and Greenville. The Yates' thank whatever 'trapper' somewhere near their home for freeing one of their cats from a trap, but wish he had notified them so if the pet had not known what happened, as well as pay the vet bill for medication.

The cat will probably lose its front foot because of the mishap. Stephen has been neutral on the issue of trapping, but now may be thinking differently, whereas Linda reinforces her opposition to it.

Sylvia Wright, June Swan, Rena Powers, Betsy Clark, Olive Anderson, and Gilbert Seely were in Rumford bowling Nov. 28. Betsy Clark was high scorer. They stopped in Rumford for lunch.

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

Rather a cloudy Saturday morning and that's what the weatherman said it would be, at least that is what Russell said. I was so sleepy last evening I didn't hear too much of what was said on the news. All this coughing during the nights to keep me awake just caught up with me I guess. So many of these colds and bronchitis going around and I'm one who can't let any of those little bugs go by without catching them, so I pay for it by being kept awake coughing. I thought flu shots were supposed to help, but they don't seem to help me and the allergy shots don't either. I just keep catching everything and have to wait for it to pass.

I'm afraid we aren't as busy around the household as we were during time for canning and freezing vegetables, but we are the busiest riding around taking me to the doctors. Not a good way to spend one's time, but if one needs help, it takes going after it.

Went to Grange last Saturday night and had a good time with a number of visitors coming to make sure we had enough people to have a meeting. We are grateful to them as it was the first meeting since installation of officers. We had visitors from several different granges and I believe the total visitors were 14. There were eight of our own members who came, so we had a good meeting. I want to thank Sister Josephine Tripp for picking up the prize I had won while she was at State Grange. I couldn't go so she had her get it for me. The State Lecturer had sent me a card saying I had won something and I thought it might be a third place ribbon in poetry as I got last year, but I was real surprised when she told me that I had a blue ribbon which is a first place winner. There were three categories in the poetry contest and one could enter one or all of them and I did just that. I am glad I did and feel pretty good about winning a blue ribbon. Also got my certificate of achievement so it was a nice evening for me. I takes a lot of work to put on programs, but it is fun and interesting when you can get a lot of people there to enjoy the work you have done.

Laura Hutchings brought my housewares order with her to the Grange meeting and Russell loaded it into the trunk of my car. I went and delivered some of it on Sunday. Wynona and Michael came and got Courtney. She had been up for a couple of nights so Wynona could go shopping on Saturday without having to look after her active daughter. Courtney went to Grange with us and was a real good girl. Laura had her grandson, Robbie there also, and they were both good children.

Of course I went to Harrison on Monday to have another sinus

Louise Loring, Corres.

Shake yourself loose and try to recapture the magic of December. The exhilarating goodness of her crisp, sharp air—will do more for you than all the prescriptions that your M.D. can write for you. The "steady intoxication" of the evergreen boughs—the touch of an intricately designed snow-flake as it dances flirtatiously upon your cheek—will if you allow it to—carry you away to that little child again that you once were. Yes even in the most mature of us all a little child lies dormant and sleeping—and December is the month to let that child break away.

What then is December like through the eyes of a child? Lest you have forgotten—come with me as I take you on a grand tour of what it was like for all of us so long ago.

The first snow storm of the season—Remember what it was like sitting in that old stuffy classroom crowded in together like sardines—the hiss of the steam radiators—and how the more benevolent of teachers allowed us to jump from our seats, rush to the windows and watch as the ground, so dull and uninteresting was so quickly transformed into a magical fairy-land of sparkling castles as it heaped and twirled itself over the bushes in the marshes that lie just outside our windows?

Remember tramping homeward through the unplowed roads? Dodging an array of your comrades' carefully prepared missiles, and how good it even tasted (!) as you sucked on the particles of frozen ice that clung to your homemade mittens?

Then out came the skates—clearing a place off on the bog—lighting a huge bonfire—then one spent all day gliding about and if you fell—so what? It only provided a chance to lie belly bunt upon the ice and peer down into a frozen foreign world of waving golden grasses. The feeling was a bit like that of "Alice in Wonderland." Jacques Cousteau himself experienced no less joy than we did as we allow our imagination to run rampant picturing all sorts of mysterious creatures sleeping below.

Do you recall racing downhill prone upon your belly atop the old "Yankee Flyer" as you watched the sparks of the fire fly from the runners of the kid's sled in front of you? It was well worth the effort to climb back up that hill again—for the thrill of racing downwards like a speeding freight train!

How about the skis held on by just old rubber jar rings? You had fun making your own trails and jumps—speeding down the mountain—the whole wide world became just a white blur—almost weightless it seemed. How it took your breath away as it trailed behind you in great frozen droplets—and each trip down without a spill brought you new confidence.

Remember the Christmas plays at school and church? How good the pine and fir boughs smelled—as the candles flickered and in the dim light you and your friends made your debut as little angels and stalwart shepherds amid the admiring loving faces of supportive neighbors—parents and loved ones. How great it felt just to be there—and if the tinsel around your hair was a little tarnished and not on very straight—it made no difference—for in your world then—a crooked halo was considered to be "far better than none at all."

Oh please drop all that adult coldness and experience December again as it is meant to be experienced—rub the crystals from your eyes—and approach each new day with the joy of living that you once had as a child.

So in recapturing a bit of that old December magic—love will again reign in all of our hearts. Ah, then December—crowned as "The Month of Magic and Miracles!" Enjoy yourselves—and Peace!

Saturday evening past the Belangers went to Milan to celebrate the birthday of a great grandson.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Legendre and Kathy were entertained by their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Corriveau Jr., at a Thanksgiving gathering. Other guests included Roger Corriveau Sr., Bobby and Janet, and Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Ferron and family of Manchester, N.H., and Fred Corriveau of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Belanger and her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Beaudry of Milan, N.H., recently returned from a long trip to Argyle, Minn., where Bill's parents reside. This visitation was a happy occasion as it reunited Bill with his family, whom he had not seen for 25 years. The main crops grown in this region consist of barley, wheat, and sugar beets and the lands are flat for as far as the eye can see—dotted with large farm estates for miles and miles. While there they toured a sugar beet factory and visited and shopped in South Dakota. Here the Red River serves as a boundary between the two states and is one of the only two rivers in the Safety Tip of the Week

Visibility is greatly affected by snow and fog. Now is the time of year to be aware of reduced visibility while driving. Fog lights really help see under the low clouds. Headlights may not help you see, but help other drivers see your car. If it is impossible to see due to blinding snow, pull over and stop, waiting for the severest weather to pass. Remember to roll down one window slightly when trying to stay warm in a car, to prevent exhaust fumes from entering. And if stranded, please don't venture out on foot. The warmth of the car is your best protection. A little caution can make a big difference in safety.

Rotary Club News

The Bethel Rotary Club is back at the Sudbury Inn for the regular luncheon meeting at 12 noon. The Inn does look nice, after the fall housecleaning, all decorated for Christmas.

Tuesday's meeting was a club assembly which followed the morning meeting of the board of directors. The board met at Lemmie Shaw's office at 7 a.m. Pending program activities were discussed at this meeting.

The program for the noon meeting consisted of the directors of the Four Avenues of Service meeting with the committee members to evaluate, change, or update projects and programs. Recommendations to be forwarded to the board for action. The Services Directors are, Roger Conant, Romeo Baker, Bill Clough, and Bill Conary, who replaces Bill Judson.

On Friday evening, Dec. 7, the club will be gathering, along with many guests, at the Sudbury Inn, to honor the newest Paul Harris Fellow, Bill Conary. It should be a great evening.

A visitor of the Club on Tuesday was Bernie Wideman of Bethel, the guest of John MacMann.

Romeo Baker, Mr. Rotary Information, talked about the humanitarian program of Rotary International. The massive scope of hunger and sickness among the peoples of Southeast Asia, Ethiopia and other areas goes far beyond the imagination of most people. Rotary volunteers and money has helped fight this tragedy.

The Senior Citizen Christmas Dinner and Party will be held on Monday, Dec. 3. A large turnout is hoped for. Y'all come! Vicki Myers will be on hand to play Christmas songs on the piano, and guess who—Rollie Glines, will lead the singing.

In last week's article, John Todd was identified as a Bates College graduate. John is a Tufts College graduate. Nine lashes of the cat-tail for the correspondent. An informal survey of the Rotary Club hunters came up with some good

Mrs. Jo Sanderson, Cor.
Hello everybody, it's me again, and I guess I have a lot of catching up to do, I really don't know where to start.

We have made several trips to Togus lately, some for Clyde to see his doctor, and partly for volunteer work. Sunday, Dec. 2, Clyde and I spent the day in Togus for the veterans Christmas party. It means so much to the patients there to have us all come in with all kinds of goodies. I went to the West Bethel Church Sale and bought some of their lovely cookies to take to the patients.

Lee Lord has been on the sick list, but is much better. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lord of Bethel called on Lee and Christie recently.

The Stantons had Thanksgiving dinner with Jo's granddaughter and family, the Richard Farrens Jr. in West Bethel.

The Lee Lords had Thanksgiving dinner with their son, Gordon Lord and family in Oxford.

Rev. Norman Rust is working with the patients at the Norway Nursing Home on Marion Avenue. Tammie and Gene Weymouth of Lewiston spent the holidays with their grandparents, Al and Gayle Weymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Abbott went to a hospital in Boston Tuesday for Faye's check up.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Harland Hart, a former resident in our hamlet.

Gordon Stevens was moved from Norway Hospital to Maine Medical Center, Portland, on Sunday. Some tube to do with his heart is all clogged up, and the Portland doctor will try to straighten him out.

Several from here attended the hunters ham supper at the West Paris Legion Hall, Nov. 30.

Callers at Lawrences: Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Arnold Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher, Marge Fuller.

Percy McInnis did some work on Arnold Coffin's trailer and it looks good. Somebody must have had an itchy trigger finger when he shot the tame deer that has been living on Curtis Hill all the fall. He paid.

WEST BETHEL Children's Center

Overnight the playground has been transformed into a winter wonderland! Snowsuits, boots, hats, and mittens are definitely in order as the children play outside each day for about an hour. Some time has been spent teaching those who need it how to get into and out of snowsuits, boots, hats and mittens: snapping, zipping, learning what gets put on first and last, etc. Older children have helped the younger ones in this activity — sharing their own expertise.

Sharing is the theme of the week, tying our family theme of last week into this. Several children have brought family photo-

This beautiful fall weather has spoiled us for what is ahead, I'm afraid, as this can't last much longer.

It's worth the trip to Bethel

To build a log cabin, you need lots of trees

Most people who set out to build a log cabin these days purchase a kit complete with plans and logs. Not so Bethel's Barry and Claire Carver. They began by designing a saw mill first. Then they designed the split level house that sits comfortably on a hill off Grover Hill Road.

After spending two years getting the sawmill operational on his father's (Harold Carver's) woodlot in Carthage, Barry Carver began cutting down trees and sawing logs.

Logs began coming from the mill this past June—about 3,000 lineal feet of white pine from some 150 trees. Claire Carver and her mother, Joyce Morgan of Mexico, set to work stripping the bark from the trees in order to eliminate homes for bugs, and in July, the 1,600-square-foot house began to take shape.

Now the house is just about closed in and the young couple look forward to moving in before spring.

The comfortable three-bedroom

PUTTING THE FINISHING TOUCHES on the exterior of their log cabin off Grover Hill Road are Claire and Barry Carver, who together with her mother and his father, have been building the house themselves, starting with the standing trees and sawing them at their own sawmill.

The house has heavy logs exposed in its peaked livingroom, and a central chimney which will serve back-to-back a Vermont Castings woodstove and a kitchen stove.

The house walls require no insulation and will simply be polyurethane and left exposed on the inside. The outside surfaces will be bleached and stained. In the spacious basement, made of poured concrete, the Carvers expect to have room for a pool table, wood storage, and a sauna.

Building houses is nothing new for Barry Carver, who works with his father as a homebuilder. The two have experience building log cabins from kits, but building one from scratch was a new experience, particularly cutting the 600 or so logs needed. "Cutting them down—that was the easy part," said Barry Carver.

In addition to having his father work alongside him on the job, Barry Carver has also had his wife Claire there whenever she's not at work at the Bethel Savings Bank. Previously owner of a crafts shop, Mrs. Carver wields carpenter tools along with the men, and keeps the fire going under the pot of caulking.

The U.S. Army has given Telstar soccer team captain Shawn Smith its MVP award for 1984. The Army Award is given to each school, in cooperation with the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

Gould gives in to beaver demands for winter quarters

The score after six weeks of confrontation stands: Gould Huskies 0, Mill Brook Beavers 1.

"They won a victory and we'll leave them alone," said Burt Hedjuk, Gould Academy's supervisor of buildings and grounds.

The skirmish between Gould and the beavers began six weeks ago when Mr. Hedjuk noticed that the Gould playing fields near Mill Brook were becoming filled with water. The fields were to be used this winter for cross-country skiing.

That was before the beavers got to work with building their winter quarters on Mill Brook. They have two dams, which house living and food storage rooms, according to what Mr. Hedjuk has learned of their habits.

Though he has seen only one of them, he estimates that there are two colonies, but has no idea as to how many there are in each colony. In any case, enough to rebuild the dams as soon as they are tampered with.

Mr. Hedjuk contacted a number of conservation groups before he finally found a beaver dam expert at the state Fish and Wildlife Department in Augusta. The expert recommended running pipes will allow the opening of an additional lift and five new trails, including the bunny slope. The skiway will continue to make snow, Ms. Gray said.

Mr. Abram had its slopes covered for the first time this season, but owner Don Cross said he would keep the trails closed until more of a base builds up and the weather turns consistently colder, so as not to ruin the trails. Mr. Cross said he would pack down the foot- or so of new snow and wait for the next storm.

little help from friends. Only three had to be towed off by Gaudreaux' wrecker, all from Rte. 26. In Andover, two cars were reported off the road, at Elm Street and the East Andover road.

Bethel highway crews used three plows, the grader and a pickup truck to keep pace with the white stuff. Employees worked until 6:30 p.m. Monday night, took a supper break and were back on the job by 8 p.m. They then worked throughout the night, until 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. One of the dump truck plows broke down during the operation and had to be towed in from Four Corners on the Grover Hill Road.

Highway Department Supervisor Davis was philosophical about the snowy battle. "The first storm (of the season) is usually the worst (to plow) because you don't have any accumulated sand on the roads."

What was a bother for local road crews and motorists was a boon to local ski areas. Sunday River's Wende Gray reported 12 inches of new snow at the skiway, which

REMINDER TO PARENTS OF ELEMENTARY STUDENTS IN M.S.A.D. #44

On Wednesday, Dec. 12, Crescent Park, Ethel Bisbee and Woodstock elementary schools will dismiss their students at 11:30 a.m. Lunches will be served. This early dismissal will enable the staff at all schools to begin the first of the self-evaluations discussed in last week's Bethel Citizen. The Andover school will be dismissed on Thursday, rather than Wednesday so the principal may coordinate both studies.

through the dam so that the water could flow through and reduce the height of dammed-up water that was soaking the playing fields.

Mr. Hedjuk and his crew went to work. "We put two PVC six-inch pipes through the dam. They acted like flues. We did a superfine job. Everybody was delighted."

The water began to recede in the playing fields and began going down behind the dam, while not disappearing altogether, said Mr. Hedjuk, who thought it was a compromise both man and beaver could live with.

"We were happy and we thought they were, too. That was until they set to work again."

The work lasted 10 days, and when the beavers were finished, the pipes—on the inlet side—were completely blocked. "The water went up a foot-and-a-half," Mr. Hedjuk reported.

"They're amazing little guys," he said admiringly, "and can do some great things."

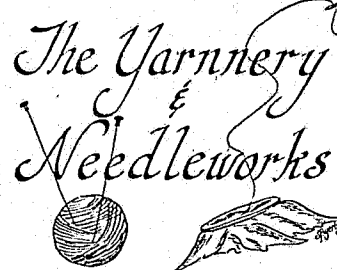

The beavers, who have set up households in the area in years past, but not last year, will be allowed to remain in peace for the winter, without further skirmishes, according to Hedjuk. In fact, he said, Gould might make the best of a bad situation and use the dam as a field site for a biology or environment course. "We could incorporate this into our teaching program," he said.
